NPCIL Participated in “India Smart Grid Week (ISGW) - 2015”

NPCIL participated in an International event “India Smart Grid Week (ISGW) - 2015” organized by India Smart Grid Forum during March 02 – 05, 2015 at Bengaluru International Exhibition Centre, Bengaluru. In this meet, a conference and an exhibition were organized, and NPCIL participated in both of them. Key participants in the event were world’s top smart-grid experts, researchers, electrical utilities, policy makers, academicians, manufacturers, suppliers, etc.

The conference and exhibition was inaugurated by shri Devendra Chaudhary, Special Secretary, Ministry of Power, Govt. of India. In his inaugural address he highlighted the importance and the need for smart grid in Indian context, especially for usage analytics, greater synergies between production and distribution as well as to improve peak performance, efficiencies, reliability, cost-effectiveness and security.

At the exhibition, NPCIL organized a stall on nuclear power and other associated aspects. Around 500 delegates visited the NPCIL stall. Their queries on safety aspects of nuclear power plants and NPCIL’s future plans were duly addressed. Officials from NPCIL headquarters and QA Office, Bengaluru participated in the conference.
